MISCELLANEOUS.

Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md
"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

A Liar With a Big Fish.

"Dear! dear!" exclaimed George H. Pegram to a covey of railroad birds in the St. James, "how many liars there are in the world anyhow. Every small and large town has its star liar, and my old town had one. My old town was Chatham, Mass. There was, when I was a boy, an old fellow of the name of George Sanders, who wore without an effort the silver star of champion long distance liar for the town and neighboring vicinity. This fellow had been, according to himself, lost 50 times in great ocean wrecks. He had wandered naked and starving up and down cannibal islands and been rescued in a most providential manner. Sharks and whales had vainly harbored designs against his life, and invariably he had led them a bootless chase. In doing all this he had also established his star reputation. One day George came into the town dragging after him an immense codfish.

"He stopped at all the houses, he was so well known, and calling out the inhabitants pointed with pride to the fish and said: 'Now, if I had told you people I had caught a fish of that size you wouldn't have believed it.' George knew his reputation well, and he knew that to gain the actual credit for his catch that he would have to work for it. It always tickled me to think that the biggest liar in town should catch the biggest fish and then be compelled to drag it all around town to prove it."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Sleeping In Gloves.

There is an anecdote of Dr. Russell, the famous war correspondent. The most unenviable position in which he ever found himself was not in battle, but in bed. As the story runs, the correspondent was on the way to India with the Prince of Wales and stopped at the palace in Athens. The king made an appointment with him for an early walk. Dr. Russell narrates: "I went up stairs to bed. I couldn't sleep. The mosquitoes bit me to their hearts' content, particularly about the hands and arms. I happened to have a pair of long white kid gloves in my bag. I got up and put them on. I awoke in the morning with the knowledge of having somebody by my bedside. It was the king, accompanied by his big dog. It was 6:30! I sat up in bed. 'In half an hour, Mr. Russell,' said the king, smiling as he left the room, 'I shall come back for you.' At breakfast that morning, during a moment of silence, the king, addressing the queen, with a sly glance in my direction, said: 'Well, I've met a great many dandies in my time, but Mr. Russell beats them all. He actually sleeps in white kid gloves.'"

How the Sultan's Food Is Prepared.

The food for the sultan of Turkey is cooked by one man and his assistants, and no others touch it. It is cooked in silver vessels, and, when done, each kettle is sealed by a slip of paper and a stamp, and this is broken in the presence of the sultan by the high chamberlain, who takes one spoonful from each separate kettle before the sultan tastes it. This is to guard against poison. The sultan never uses a plate. He rarely uses a knife or fork—a spoon, his bread, a pancake or fingers are far handier. It requires just twice as many slaves as there are courses to serve a dinner to him.—Woman's World.

Railroad English.

Slang expressions generally originate with the railroad men, and a person not versed in slang might listen to a crowd of railroad men talking for an hour without getting the slightest impression of their meaning. Consequently, when an Atchison girl received the following letter from her Apollo, a brakeman, she was somewhat puzzled: "My dear, I pushed the con's face yesterday, and he told the supe, who put me on the carpet and finally put the can to me. I will have to lay over on the hill for 10 days and will be down to see you soon."—Atchison Globe.

The Advantages of Dead Peers.

The emperor of China has ennobled the ancestors of Sir Halliday Macartney for three generations. I congratulate these posthumous noblemen, wherever their disembodied spirits may be. Honor will no doubt be most gratifying to them. The Chinese are more sensible than we are. It is far more reasonable to convert dead men who can do no harm into noblemen than to make unborn descendants of living men into legislators, in which capacity they may do much harm.—London Truth.

The Remains of Pets as Ornaments.

A London lady of high degree wears set in the jewels of her bracelet a tooth extracted from the mouth of her pet poodle. Another affectionate creature uses the skin of a once favorite horse as a hearth rug for her boudoir and has a defunct pet pug mounted in a lifelike attitude by the taxidermist for an ornament on her writing table.—Exchange.

An Enthusiast Indeed.

Mrs. Trulove—What on earth ever induced you to engage yourself to Count Lackpenny?

Miss Brickybrac—Why, my dear, don't you know that he will inherit a service of renaissance plate? How it will improve my collection!—Jewelers' Weekly.

FARMER BROWN'S CONCLUSION.

Well, the first I heard about 'em
Was through some boarders we had,
That talked about microbes and such things
Till I own I was fairly scared.
We've lived on the farm for thirty odd years
And been middlin healthy, too,
We've raised eight good, smart children
Which's as well as most of folks do.

But last summer we took some professors,
And they made my blood run cold,
For ghosts and goblins warn't nowhere
Compared to the yarns they told
About microbes that swim in the water
And fly on wings through the air,
That have feet to walk about with
And can stick to your skin and hair.

They peeked over the edge of the well curb
To see if the bucket was clean,
And analyzed the pertaters
To find the paris green
That I put on the tops in early spring,
Afore the pertaters was growed;
Then how they thought it could git inside
Was more than ever I knowed

They wanted our tomcat kept to home,
Because one of 'em'd heard of a case
Where a cat brought home a disease in its fur
Though there warn't one to ketch in the place.
They went up into the paster,
To see if the cows eat weeds,
For if they did the milk we used
Would be full of colic seeds.

They peeked in the sullar and aired the barn
Though I allurs took pains to keep clean
And sprinkled cleansin powders around
That smelt wus'n any old dreen.
They hunted 'em faithful all summer,
Till I kind of pitied the things
And thought to myself the Almighty was wise
When on some of the kinds he put wings.

Well, after they'd gone away in the fall
Matilda she says to me,
"The best thing we can do, Caleb,
Is to let the whole thing be."
So we come to this conclusion,
No matter what microbes might bring,
A little bit of learning
Isa mighty dangerous thing.
—Yankee Blade.

Offensive and Exasperating Expressions.

In our own opinion the use of "common form" jocularities is most offensive in those who think of them as wit, though most painful in persons who use them unconsciously and as mere methods of expressing their meaning. We feel that those who try to force a laugh out of such expressions as "my downy couch" or "committing matrimony," who squirm into a smile as they ask if "there isn't room for a little one," or who speak of "japanning their trotter cases," might fairly be shot at sight.

When some excellent mother of a large and heavily facetious family catches up and uses almost unconsciously such phrases as "getting outside a square meal," "the clerk of the weather," "she's no chicken," or "put on your warpaint," and when even the father mechanically talks of "performing his ablutions," the sense of pathos overcomes all others.—London Spectator.

An Aged Man's Amusement.

Henry Russell, the veteran composer of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," passes half the day in making miniature chests of drawers. They are in every respect a work of art, each drawer fitting with a truly remarkable exactness. The dear old gentleman has a room on the ground floor of his charming house especially set apart for his work, and therein may be seen all kinds of tools and nails, two benches, tins of paint, glue pots and large planks of wood.

He never attempts to make anything else but these little chests of drawers, and he often sends them to charity bazaars, where, if his autograph is on them, they have been known to fetch as much as £2 or £3. Thus he provides himself with an innocent amusement and does good at the same time.—London Tit-Bits.

An Enduring Publication.

An eminent artist, known for his plain speaking, remonstrating with Oscar Wilde on his undue admiration of his own play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," remarked: "I much doubt whether such a work could live after the present season. Now, the 'School For Scandal' has lasted 100 years and is as popular to-day as ever it was." "Ah!" murmured Oscar, "but so is 'Bradshaw's Guide.'"—San Francisco Argonaut.

Masculine Management.

Little Dick—Go ask mamma if we can have these crusts she was goin to throw away.

Little Dot—I don't want crusts.

Little Dick—Neither do I, but if we ask her for 'em she'll give us a big piece of ginger cake.—Good News.

Good resolutions are a pleasant crop to sow. The seed springs up so readily, and the blossoms open so soon with such a brave show, especially at first. But when the time of flowers has passed, what as to the fruit?—Malet.

It is claimed that the best handles of small tools are made from the wood of the apple tree, which is very hard when dry and possesses a fine grain. Moreover, it is said, it does not crack easily after it has been dressed.

Fishes swallow their food hastily and without mastication because they are obliged unceasingly to open and close the jaws for the purpose of respiration and cannot long retain food in the mouth when quite shut.

Of the entire human race 500,000,000 are well clothed, 250,000,000 go habitually naked and 700,000,000 only cover the middle parts of the body.

The modern Italian wine jars, holding about 20 quarts, are almost identical in shape and size with the amphoræ found in Pompeii.

Do Water Wheels Run Faster at Night?

For years the question whether water wheels run faster at night than during the day has been catalogued among the things which no man can find out.

They do if they are so geared as to be affected by the varying fullness and speed of the current in which they are set. There is no doubt that all streams are fuller and all streams carry more water at midnight than they do at noon. In the first place, the increased coolness of the air prevents evaporation and subsequent drying up of the smaller tributaries, and, in the second place, the condensation of the moisture in the air in the shape of dew is always sufficient to add something to large streams and their branches. Heavy dews are often so copious as to be almost equal to a small shower of rain. We often hear dewdrops falling from the overloaded leaves and find all exposed objects as wet as if they had undegone a shower during the night. A large portion of this moisture must get into the minute channels, which of course conduct it to mill streams.

"Often," says Humboldt, "the effect upon a shallow stream is very noticeable indeed." If it is at all "noticeable," a wheel turned by such a stream would "go faster by night than by day."—Indianapolis News.

The Feast of St. Barbara.

The feast of St. Barbara, like that of St. Martin, is a soldiers' fete in Italy. The heroic girl, if we may believe an old story of the tenth century, was an angel of beauty and virtue, born in a fortress where her father, Dioscoro, was the governor and also aid-de-camp to the emperor, Maximilian. St. Barbara first saw the light in Italy in her father's beautiful villa near Scandriglia, a gift from the emperor to his general, rich with mineral waters, marvelous plants, statues, etc., where she passed the first few years of her life, and where she became a convert to the Christian religion.

The beautiful girl was hunted to death, taken prisoner, her breasts were cut off, and she was exposed to brutal soldiers, who took possession of her, fastened her to a stake, covered her with quicklime and burned her to death, and this she suffered rather than renounce the religion she had embraced. This, at least, is the legend, and the artillery and the engineer regiments fete her as their patron, to whom they show much respect and gratitude, especially as they have half the day free and double pay.—London Society.

Pure Flour and Bran.

Those who mistake the flour of dirt for a natural characteristic of flour are not likely to be safe guides in anything relating to flour. Unrefined sugar is noted for its "flavor," but the flavor is merely the dirt or extraneous matter in the sugar. So it is with unrefined flour. The stalk of the wheat is quite as digestible as the bran and is quite similar in composition. The bran faddists ought to insist on smashing bran, awns and stems all at once into meal. Then they would have a meal in which nothing is wasted—except the consumer. The consumer should be guided by experience. If bran agrees with him, he is right in eating it. If it disagrees with him, he is right in refusing to eat it. The moralizers who are trying to make out that the millers are doing a great wrong in making pure flour have everything against them nowadays.—Milling World.

Whither the Winds Bore Him.

It is said of an old time Maine preacher, Father Blaisdell, who was the pioneer missionary along the Maine coast, that he would launch his boat and sail before the wind, and where the wind took him he would land and preach. At one time, so the story goes, the wind bore him directly toward Islesboro. Just before getting there, however, the wind shifted, and although he was within a few rods of the land he turned his boat and with the wind sailed off to another town, where he landed, held meetings and started one of the greatest revivals ever held under his ministry.—Rockland (Me.) Courier-Gazette.

An Invention Suggested.

The Listener wants some one to invent and construct a vehicle which shall have wheels and also a set of runners, and be furnished with a lever so placed and geared that when the vehicle is moving over good solid snow it will go on the runners, but when a thin or bare spot is reached, the lever may be operated and the runners drawn up, and then the vehicle will go on wheels.—Boston Transcript.

Management of the Spoon.

Use the spoon only to stir tea or coffee; never use it to sip or drink with. As soon as the liquid is stirred place the spoon in the saucer and leave it there during the remainder of the meal. If a second cup is desired, pass the cup with the spoon in the saucer, not in the cup. Do not drink from the cup with the spoon in it.—Housekeeper.

Doesn't Like Doctors.

"I don't like our doctor," said Willie. "I went and caught a cold bad enough to keep me home from school for two weeks, and the mean old doctor cured me in less'n two days."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE McNulty and Vincent murder cases came up in the Supreme Court to-day, says a dispatch from Washington dated May 1st. Attorney-General Hart represented the State of California and Carroll Cook the defendants. Hart moved to dismiss the writ of error, on the ground that no Federal issue was ever involved and that it was purely a matter for the California courts. Lawyer Cook objected to the motion to dismiss being heard until the case proper was heard on its merits. The court decided to consider the motion to dismiss in both cases, and they were accordingly submitted on briefs without argument. A decision is expected some time within the next month. Hart and Cook each profess to believe that the court will decide in his favor, and Cook says that if the court denies the motion to dismiss, the cases will come up on the second Monday in October for argument on their merits. Should the Court decide in favor of McNulty and Vincent they will be set free together with George Bruggy of this county, Bowden of Humboldt and other convicted murderers under sentence of death.

America's Great Danger

AN ENGLISH COMMENTARY.

Said an eminent English scientist recently: "The danger that confronts the great American people to-day is not the possible adoption of a wrong financial policy for the nation, or the spread of socialism, or the increase of corruption among public men. All these are bad enough, to be sure, but they are as nothing compared to the terrible national disease—I had almost said national crime—of overwork. The mad rush for wealth is set at a killing pace, and thousands fall by the way every year.

You are likely to be one of the victims!

How do we know? Because it is the exception to find a man or woman of adult age in perfect health. Nervous Disorders are spreading with fearful rapidity. Among the symptoms are—Backache, Biliousness, Cold Hands and Feet, Dizziness, Hot Flashes, Fluttering Sensation, Fainting, Headache, Hysteria, Irritability of the Heart, Melancholy, Failing Memory, Palpitation, Rheumatism, Shortness of Breath, Sleeplessness, Nervous Dyspepsia, Sexual Debility, Fits, etc.

REV. C. A. CARROLL, pastor First Baptist Church, Yellow Springs, O., writes as follows: "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for the past six months. I find it acts like a charm on the whole nervous system. I have not found its equal in giving immediate relief. Dr. Miles' Little Nerve and Liver Pills only need a trial and they will recommend themselves to be the best pills in the market."

"For five years I have suffered from Nervous Prostration, I was unable to work or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine gave me relief, and one thousand dollars would not cover the good it has done me."—JOHN MINCHER, Youngstown, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unequalled in CURING Nervous Diseases. It contains no opiates or dangerous drugs. Sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

At the fire in Santa Rosa last Sunday, which destroyed a barn belonging to Mrs. Caswell, Marshal Breitenbach met with a painful accident. The appraisers of the estate of Christiane Tente, who recently died in San Francisco, and who was a resident of Sonoma for many years previous to her taking up her residence in the metropolis, have set a value on the estate of $4,227.22, which consists of money in bank, personal property, notes and a small farm near this place. The appraisers were R. E. Perkins and B. P. Norris. Adolph C. Lutgens is named as the executor of the estate in the will left by Mrs. Tente.

C. Weise, who died last Sunday near Glen Ellen, left a will which has been filed for probate in this county. The document recites that at the time of the testator's second marriage he was possessed of but seventeen acres of land, but that he had bargained for all the land he now possesses and had the money to pay for it. A legacy of $600 is left to his wife, to be paid immediately after his death. The balance of his estate goes to his children share and share alike. The children named are Fred. W. Weise, Hallie M. Luttrell, John H. Weise, Chas. C. Weise and Lucy N. Weise. The son, John Weise, is named as executor, and the will is dated at Santa Rosa, March 23rd, 1893. The estate is valued in the petition for probate at about $5,000.

LUTTRELL GETS THERE.

The President Appoints Him U. S. Commissioner for Alaska.

Hon. J. K. Luttrell of this valley, who has been in Washington for several weeks, has returned to his home. He brings with him his credentials as United States Commissioner for Alaska. The salary of the office is $4500 a year and the duties are very light. Upon his arrival in San Francisco he was interviewed by an Examiner reporter to whom he talked as follows:

"When I left San Francisco for Washington my friends urged me to apply for the Superintendency of the Mint, but I had already given my support to Mr. Daggett. I did expect to ask to be made Governor of Alaska, but when I got East I changed my mind. It took me but a day to learn that the salary was only $3,000 a year, and that the Governor can only leave the Territory when given permission by the President. This was a contract I did not care to undertake and made no application. Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle offered me the Commissionership for Alaska and I accepted it. The work in connection with the office will keep me in Alaska from about June of each year till October, and the rest of the time I can make such disposition of as I see fit.

"I shall go to Alaska about the last of this month, and I have already in mind a number of plans for the development of that great region. Last summer I made a number of experiments there in agriculture and I found that the ordinary vegetables and grain would flourish to a surprising degree. Some of the potatoes and turnips were as good as I ever saw in California, and the wheat was of the finest quality and the yield per acre large.

"So far as local appointments are concerned I can say that I have every reason to believe that John Daggett will be Superintendent of the Mint. His name will be sent in before the 1st of July. I had no such assurance from the heads of departments, but that is the prevailing opinion at Washington. I had quite a talk with Mr. Cleveland about it, and while, of course, he gave no intimation of his intentions he seemed greatly impressed with Mr. Daggett.

An Old Landmark Gone.

The one-story frame building, which has stood on the east side of the Cooper bridge on Sonoma creek on the Petaluma road for thirty-eight years, was burned to the ground last Tuesday morning. The building had been unoccupied for a number of years and was in a very dilapidated condition and little or no monetary value was attached to it. The house was constructed in 1855 and for years was used as a wayside inn, which was presided over for several years by the father of City Treasurer Cornelius, who subsequently returned to Germany, where he died. At one time it was a popular resort for travelers between Sonoma and Petaluma. Of late years the house has has been a rendezvous for tramps and it is supposed to have been accidentally set on fire by a number those gentry, who had camped on the premises the night previous to the fire. The house belonged to Mrs. Rachel J. Snyder.

Death of Mrs. T. S. Glaister.

Mrs. Glaister, wife of T. S. Glaister, the well-known wine grower and one of Sonoma's most respected citizens, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Otto Wagner, in this place, on Friday night of last week after a short illness. The deceased was a devout member of the Congregational Church and was a highly cultured lady. She had many warm friends among the residents of this valley who highly prized her friendship. Mrs. Glaister was kind and courtly in her manners and her sweet disposition made her beloved by all who had the good fortune to be thrown into her society. The deceased was a native of England and had reached the advanced age of 78 years. The funeral took place last Sunday from the Wagner residence on Broadway. The remains were temporarily placed in the public receiving vault where they were followed by a large number of relatives and friends. Mrs. Glaister's kind face and gentle voice will be sadly missed by those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

The New Officers of The S. F. & N. P. R. R.

Lilenthal Vice-President; Sidney V. Smith, Counselor; Thomas Mellersh, Secretary; H. C. Whiting, General Manager; R. X. Ryan, General Passenger and Freight Agent; George C. Hickox, Cashier; Frank K. Zook, Engineer; W. G. Corbaley, Superintendent of the road.

The City Trustees.

At a meeting of the City Trustees, held last Wednesday evening, the following business was transacted:

G. S. Harris was allowed $2 per week for sprinkling the streets facing the Plaza.

Twenty-five dollars was appropriated for completing the approaches to the new bridge at the Duhring crossing.

The plan for a new City Hall submitted by J. B. Small was adopted and Clerk Breitenbach was instructed to advertise for sealed proposals for the construction of the same, bids to be received on or before May 25th.

An ordinance regulating water rates was passed by the following vote: Ayes — Trustees Trudgen, Seipp and Weyl. No—Trustee Litzius. Absent—Trustee Schocken.

Trustee Trudgen called the attention of the Board to the sewage which is being run from the Ticino Hotel into the public street in violation of a city ordinance. The Street Committee was ordered to have the nuisance abated.

No action was taken on the application of R. B. Lyon to be permitted to dump his sewage on the public street in order to enjoy the same privileges of some other people in this town that he knew of.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

F. Breitenbach, salary three months	$25 00

Death of a Pioneer Resident.

Christian Weise, a pioneer resident of this valley, died at his home near Glen Ellen, last Sunday, of dropsy, after an illness of several weeks. The deceased located in Sonoma Valley in the early fifties and continued to reside here up to the time of his death. For many years he has been engaged in wine-growing on his farm a few miles from Glen Ellen. Mr. Weise was a whole-souled gentleman and a good neighbor. For several months the old gentleman has been failing and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Weise was a widower, his wife having died many years ago. He was the father of Mrs. F. H. Luttrell, Jailor Harry Weise of Santa Rosa, Chas. Weise and Fred. Weise of Glen Ellen and Miss Lucy N. Weise. The remains were brought to Sonoma and interred in Mountain Cemetery last Tuesday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended by people from all over the valley. The following well-known citizens acted as pall-bearers: J. Chauvet, Judge Breitenbach, G. W. Sparks, Henry Weyl Sr., John M. Hendley and Judge Zane. The deceased was a native of Germany and aged 60 years.

ONCE IN THE BIBLE.

Careful Search Shows Dictionaries and Concordances In Error.

A minister in North Carolina and another, and also a Bible teacher in Kentucky, have been puzzled over this query, "The word 'its' is found only once in the Bible—where?" They say: "Will you please tell us where? We have failed to find it." It is not remarkable that a minister of experience should fail to find the answer to this query.

The word "its" is not found in the best concordances of the Bible, such as Cruden's and Young's. Moreover, Worcester's larger dictionary quotes the statement of Trench, "Through the whole of our authorized version of the Bible 'its' does not once occur. Although Worcester corrects an error of Trench in respect to the use of the word "its" by Shakespeare and Milton, he does not correct the statement in respect to the use of the word in the authorized version of the Bible.

Webster's Unabridged Dictionary also says, "The possessive form, 'its,' is modern, being rarely found in Shakespeare and Milton, and not at all in King James' version of the Bible." The same statement is repeated in Webster's new International Dictionary, word for word. Dr. Angus, in his "Handbook of the English Tongue," also says: "'Its' is a recent form in English. It is seldom found in Shakespeare and never in sacred Scripture."

The statement of the revisers of the English Bible in their preface is more precise. They say: "It is well known that 'its' does not occur in the Bible of 1611, and it does not appear to have been introduced into any edition before 1660. But it is found 10 times in Shakespeare, and there is other evidence to show that at the time of the authorized version it was coming into use."

Now, if our North Carolina minister and other readers of the authorized version of the Bible will turn to Leviticus xxv, 5, they will find the following: "That which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap."

The word "its" is therefore found in the current version of our English Bible, notwithstanding the statement of Worcester, Webster and other authorities to the contrary. Moreover, the word appears in various editions, as those of the American Bible society, the Oxford and Cambridge Press issues, the Collins Bibles, Eyre and Spottiswoode's, Bagster's and all the editions of family and pulpit Bibles consulted for this purpose.—Sunday School World.

Lord Tennyson as a Carpet Cleaner.

Tennyson appeared once in the new character of carpet cleaner. Calling on some friends and finding them absent he wrote them a polite note, but had the misfortune to overturn the ink bottle upon the beautiful white Persian carpet. Frantic, he appealed for help to the servant. She, suddenly recollecting that new milk will remove ink when wet, seized a can of the creamy liquid which happened to have been just left by the milkman. She upset the can on the large black pool and set about rubbing and scrubbing the stain.

Down went Tennyson on his hands and knees, rubbing and scrubbing also, in an agony of suspense lest his friends should return, which he afterward said "reached the infinite." Every trace of ink was removed, and the servant was rewarded with a 5-shilling piece and the poet's "God bless you!"—London Tit-Bits.

The Funny Bone.

A most unpleasant sensation is caused by the violent excitation of the ulnar nerve due to a blow on the elbow. This nerve passes down on the inner side of the arm, and then rather inconsiderately bends around and enters the forearm at the back of the elbow joint. Any one who has felt his neighbor's elbow sticking into his ribs knows that the elbow is remarkably deficient in flesh. The nerve is therefore at this point very near the surface and has little to shield it from a blow. If we are so unfortunate as to give our elbow a smart tap, we obtain a practical confirmation of the fact that the ulnar nerve is the principal sensory nerve of the forearm and hand.—Toronto Mail.

Odd Comment.

One who gives public or private recitations is certain to hear remarkable comments on his work. Most people wish for something emotional and dramatic, where the color is laid on with a heavy brush and sentiment is rampant.

"I like to be curdled," said a great lady to me one day. "I like that piece about a child being run over by a train. Oh, isn't it run over? Well, you think it's going to be run over, and that's nearly as good."

Another lady once asked, with a gracious and sunny smile, "Don't you recite anything about a good murder?"—Clifford Harrison in "Stray Records."

A SENSATION IN CHURCH.

An Inquisitive Dog Created Consternation In a Puritan Gathering.

"Some curious stories are told in connection with old Puritan church customs," said Mr. Hezekiah Butterworth. "Some of the old customs seem very funny as we see them now. "It was little less than a crime not to attend church in those old days unless detained by sickness. In fact, a person was thought very little of who even came late to Sunday worship.

"One Sunday morning in early autumn a Puritan woman, whose reputation for housekeeping, spinning, and church attendance was excellent, was belated in her morning work. She took her long necked pitcher and went to the pasture where her cow was waiting to be milked. This duty done, she found—for she could see people on the road—that she hadn't time even to carry the milk back to the house and get to church in season. So she took her long necked pitcher along with her and sat in the gallery right near where the singers and bass viols were displayed. After the singing was over and the long sermon had begun—sermons were an hour or two long in those days—she grew sleepy.

"Her long necked pitcher sat on the floor near by and near the front of the gallery. She was soon oblivious of either milk, sermon or a dog that came pitpatering up the gallery stairs. The milk soon attracted the dog. He smelled and wagged his tail, then smelled and wagged again, then looked inquiringly at the unconscious milkmaid. He made up his mind very soon, and into the long neck went the dog's head, neck too. He couldn't get much milk and wanted to pull back and try again.

"But he couldn't. His head was wedged fast in. He pulled and used his paws and tried to back away. Blinded of course by the pitcher, his steps were erratic, and suddenly to the astonished people below there appeared a sudden parting of the balcony curtain, an almost blood curdling yell was heard, and there was a flash and downpouring, straight in among the four unconscious deacons in the deacons' pew beneath, of snow white milk, long necked pitcher and a milk soaked, frightened dog.

"For once there was a great awakening in that church, but the poor woman was frightened nearly out of her wits, and the superstitious deacons were greatly scandalized."—Boston Journal.

Attention Paid to Walking.

It is enough to imagine the unfeigned amazement of a dame of the old school if the proper position of the feet in walking were made a matter of doubt. For years the dancing master's standard in all matters of carriage and walk has been an unquestioned one. The fin de siecle young woman, however, has a mind of her own. She has not found that the conventional training of the dancing master, valuable as it undoubtedly is, was all sufficient in producing that grace of carriage and elegance of manner so desirable in the woman of the world.

On the contrary, she has found that the physical training of the woman of the stage has been more often conducive to the desired end. Hence it is that schools of [illegible] have sprung up all over the land, and systems of physical training including boxing and [illegible] before released to the [illegible] sex, have found patronage [illegible]ety.—Chicago Tribune.

He Matches Odd Buttons.

Not long since I discovered a man in New York who makes a specialty of matching lost buttons. His shop, a dingy little, low ceilinged room, was surrounded by shelves on which were piled boxes of buttons of all sorts and conditions. While I was there a girl came in and asked him if he had any like those on her jacket. He took down several specimens and presently found one, which he sewed on. She paid him 10 cents. That is the usual price, though rare buttons sometimes come higher.

At regular intervals he goes around collecting buttons among tailors and dressmakers, who save them for him and sell them very cheap. He has a set of regular customers, and they rarely go away without finding exactly what they want.—Lippincott's.

"German Syrup"

Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STICKNEY, Picton, Ontario."

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would set violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes, and roll from around, then stop sometimes. It would take 4 men to hold her in bed or elsewhere. She only would cramp and lie so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. McGILLIS.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STAR, LANE CO., OREGON, Feb. 8th, 1892.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a Curb of long standing. Then I had a four-year old colt badly Sweenied; tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your liniment, and in a few weeks he was well and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at Cottage Grove, Or. S. Z. TAXTON.
